

BRITISH FEAR THAT NAZIS PLAN COUP OVER THE WEEK-END

Word Flashes Through Secret Diplomatic Channels In Last 12 Hours

HITLER MAKES DECISION

British Papers Hint That The Situation is Near the Explosion Point

By Charles A. Smith

LONDON, July 1—(INS)—Word flashing through secret diplomatic channels within the last dozen hours today renewed British fears that Nazis in Danzig are planning an internal coup over the week-end.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler, it was rumored, has decided on a "final solution" of the Danzig problem within the next few days.

These reports were partially borne out in a dramatic press conference at the Foreign Office almost at midnight last night when Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, called in diplomatic correspondents and gave them confidential, but ominous, news.

Thereafter London newspapers without attributing any information to Lord Halifax, hinted that the situation is reaching an explosive point, and stressed that London and Paris view the situation with extreme gravity.

PARIS, July 1—(INS)—Premier Edouard Daladier today called together his ministers to discuss measures to strengthen France's armed power in the light of developments in the Danzig crisis.

Daladier, ruling again with semi-dictatorial powers since he sent Parliament home with the warning that the summer months would be the most difficult for Europe since the World War, had before him the report of France's ambassador to Poland, Leon Noel.

Noel rushed back from Warsaw yesterday to give his personal story of the German-Polish situation. Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, also talked with Daladier.

The cabinet, it was understood, is discussing such precautionary measures as financing increased armaments, developing industry in general, and speeding up production in airplane factories.

"JAP" CARPET-BAGGERS SWARM INTO NORTH CHINA

No Less Than 3,000 Japanese and Koreans Flock to Sinsiang

IN WAKE OF ADVANCE

(This is another article of a series covering the high points of a five thousand mile tour of North China under Japanese military occupation between the Great Wall and the Yangtze River.)

By John Goette
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SINSIANG, (Hohai Province), North China, July 1—(INS)—No less than three thousand Japanese and Korean men and women civilians have flocked to this small unimportant Chinese walled city since its occupation by the Japanese army. Sinsiang is not many miles inside the active front and it serves as an example of the manner in which the Japanese are swarming across the face of occupied China.

Before the war, Sinsiang had but 30,000 native population with no Japanese whatsoever. Now the Japanese make up one-tenth of that number over and above the army staff. The best Chinese houses and shops have been "taken over" for the Japanese while beer halls, cheap eating places and questionable resorts have shaken the dignity of the quiet town.

Neutral observers always ask the same question—what do these Japanese civilians do to keep alive? The Chinese shun them and their wares but cannot avoid forced sales to them of such products as might be profitable for export. That is, profitable for the Japanese carpet-baggers.

A conservative estimate of the Japanese who have settled upon the North China countryside like a plague of locusts might be placed at well over 100,000. In Nanking I found 4,000 Japanese against 60 Americans. Tsingtao now has 23,000 Japanese where there were but 16,000 before the war and they are arriving at the rate of six hundred a month. Americans in Tsingtao number but 240 and Britons 270 by the way of comparison. Japanese officials explained that 20 per cent of their nationals in that port city were employed in the mills, while the balance worked in banks, the government and ran small shops, hotels and beer halls. The total population is 500,000.

Tsinan, capital of Japanese occupied Shantung province, with a native population of 300,000, is saddled with 10,000 Japanese and the prospects of unlimited increase. Even with large missionary establishments of hospitals and university, Tsinan's Americans never reached more than one hundred.

Kaifeng, capital of Hohai province, cradle of China's ancient civilization, had a pre-war population of 200,000 which is now much reduced. Nevertheless, 2,000 Japanese civilians have followed the army to settle there. Again there are but a handful of American and European missionaries with no businessmen.

In other provincial capitals under Japanese military occupation, the story is the same: Kaigan, with a population of 90,000 has 5,000 Japanese. In Taiyuanfu, Shansi's capital, 6,000 Japanese support themselves among the 100,000 Chinese.

Practically no walled town of any size is free from this Japanese influx.

Communication

(By "The Stroller")

"Why Not?" was the title of a story in this column the other day inquiring why some civic groups have not hit upon some incentive to encourage the improvement and beautification of lawns.

We have received a note from a reader of that article who voices a complaint against the borough.

We are not printing the communication because we have here stated on previous occasions that this column cannot be used as a "fix it" column.

Communications are welcomed, but it is against a rule of this column to permit its readers to voice their objections about others.

TREVOSE ASS'N STAGES FLOWER EXHIBITION

Impromptu Show Held At Meeting and Prizes Are Awarded

A GOOD ATTENDANCE

TREVOSE, July 1—An impromptu flower show was staged at the meeting of the Trevose Horticultural Society in the community house with the usual good attendance. Garrett V. Clarke, president, was in the chair for the business session.

Those who received prizes in the various classes were:

Class 1—container of lilies, Robert McKenney; Class 2—container of Japanese iris, Jarrett Gardens; Class 3—container of delphiniums, Jarrett Gardens; Class 4—container of roses, no entry; Class 5—any other Spring flower of one kind, Mrs. Ryan.

Class 6—arrangement featuring iris, Mrs. Vanartsdalen; Class 7—arrangement featuring lilies, Miss Helen Vaughan; Class 8—arrangement featuring roses, Mrs. Clarkson; Class 9—arrangement featuring Spring flowers, Mrs. Synnestevedt.

The judges were asked to explain the good points of the winning exhibits.

About thirty attendance prizes were awarded during the evening. These consisted of gladiolus bulbs and dahila plants.

Mrs. Parry announced that at the July meeting an amusing little skit will be presented, entitled "Over the Garden Wall."

Robert McKenney, Newtown chairman of conservation and roadside planting, gave his usual interesting talk on timely topics. This month he told of some fine cherry trees he has seen and "tasted." He spoke of the cherry not being a native of this country but a foreigner which has become naturalized. Mr. McKenney has been trying for years to produce a cherry tree that would grow the kind of fruit he remembers as a boy and he at last has just such a tree on his grounds.

He had with him a branch from that tree full of big red cherries that had the mouths of the audience literally dripping.

Mrs. Henry C. Parry, chairman of the entertainment committee, again provided a half-hour of that intriguing pastime, "True and False," with five charming ladies opposing five stalwart men. The questions were all on gardening and the ladies were the winners.

The impromptu flower show held at the May meeting was so well received that the committee decided to try another one at the June meeting. Judges for this show were Mrs. Katherine Graham, Mrs. Torrey and Mrs. Clarke.

Stabs Wife 32 Times

CAMDEN, N. J., July 1—Climaxing an eight hour quarrel, Thomas M. Swisler, 40, stabbed and critically wounded his 38 year old wife, with a pair of scissors in the bathroom of their Camden dwelling early today, police reported.

Physicians at the West Jersey Homeopathic Hospital said the victim, Mrs. Frances Swisler, suffered 32 stab wounds and had "little chance for recovery." Police said the husband readily admitted stabbing his wife because "she nagged me about running around with other women." Neighbors aroused by screams ran into the Swisler house and found the woman lying on the bathroom floor. At the hospital Mrs. Swisler identified her husband, gasped out the story of the stabbing and lapsed into a coma.

"Springtime for Henry" is the Title of The Opening Production

NEW HOPE, July 1—This community tonight will be the center of the theatrical world when the new $40,000 Bucks County Playhouse opens its doors to the public for the first time. Edward Everett Horton, popular motion picture comedian, has come on from Hollywood to play the title role in Benn Levy's madcap farce, "Springtime for Henry."

SATURDAY, JULY 1, 1939

VACATION TIME

Traditionally July and August are the months of vacations. Mil-lions of people now out of work say they have had too much vacation. What they want is some plan by which they will have fewer and shorter loafing times. However, the majority of the American peo-ple still have jobs. The two weeks or more which they spend on some trip or at some resting place is the high point of the year to them.

Some of them undertake to per-form great and mighty stunts. The man who sits all day at a desk should remember that he is not do-ing much on that job to fit his mus-cles for a strenuous vacation. That is, unless he walks to and from his work daily, which is not the usual thing. If the day he gets to his re-sort he attempts to climb a high mountain or go around the golf links half a dozen times, something is likely to grunt inside of him. When that fellow returns, he may have that worn and haggard look that leads his friends to ask what hospital was he visiting.

Many people go to their summer rest in a state of near exhaustion. That is true of some teachers and other mental workers. If a teacher finds it takes all her nervous force to keep thinking up new ways to stir lazy or unruly children to use-ful action, she is not in a mood for any very strenuous stunts.

Vacation gives people a chance to do what they want to. That is, so long as there is money available. You can get a very nice vacation nowadays without spending much money. It is fine to travel, but a lot of interesting things can be done without leaving the state.

CLEANING UP THE MESS

Progress is being made in clean-ing up the mess in the Pennsylvania state government left by former Governor Earle when he went out of office in a landslide of votes last November.

Charges of padding of the high-way department payrolls prior to the election for political purposes have resulted in the conviction of a lad named Brownmiller, who was Earle's state secretary of highways. Several others have gone on trial, and many indictments have been returned.

Although numerous complaints were made to Washington of the brazen manner in which public funds, including some supplied by Washington, were being mis-used for political purposes by the Earle outfit, these were all met with denunciation and invective by gar-gulous Harold Ickes.

Pennsylvania has shown, how-ever, that it can handle a situation like this without Federal aid. Many of the boys who were living in clover under Earle have been re-turned to their former status of tramps, and others will become con-victs. Buying of elections has gone out of style, which is the best pos-sible omen for 1940.

June 15 arrived safely, and Fin-land and Hungary made payments on their debts to us. We wish them many happy returns of the day.

As to the situation in China, we can't be sure. Every time we find Britain in a position from which it can't back down, it backs up.

The American house isn't built to last, but what of it? The heirs pre-late for a cute little new one, anyway.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL
Copyright, 1939
King Features Syndicate, Inc.
HOLLYWOOD—The Romanian ambassador to Japan and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Stoicescu, will never know what a sensation their visit caused at M-G-M. As if it were in every-day occurrence, they visited the "Ni-totchka" set and watched Greta Garbo make a scene. For their infor-mation, they probably are the first non-professional visitors to do this since the star's early days in Hollywood.

One of the fan magazines is very excited over the discovery that Hedy Lamarr intends to take out citizenship papers. The truth is she already has her first papers—re-ceived them six months ago under her real name, Hedwig Kiesler.

Nancy Kelly was supposed to use a ju-jitsu hold on Binnie Barnes for a scene in "Frontier Marshall." After instructions from an expert, she did it—but good. Binnie's arm is in such a fix that she probably won't be able to play tennis for a month.

And in the same picture, Randy Scott has to throw her into a horse trough.

The new D-C-4 practically stopped production at three stu-dios—R-K-O, Paramount, and Col-umbia—on an hour's trial flight over Hollywood. Roar of its motors penetrated even the sound-proof stages. Studios finally called Clover field to ask that the plane be shift-ed to another course.

Gable's sponsorship of Boy Scout Troop No. 59 in Westwood is very much on the level. He'll pay ex-penses for the 40 members to take a three-day outing. The boys will choose their own spot and Gable has promised to pay them a visit.

Everything is done dramatically in this town. The other day, Pau-lette Goddard was at the Isthmus in Catalina when M-G-M suddenly needed her for "The Women." They put in a frantic call. Like one of the characters he plays in pic-tures, Vic McLaglen, also an Isth-mus visitor, volunteered the use of his speedboat. He took Paulette on a wild ride to Avalon, where she hopped aboard a plane. A fast car met her and dashed to the studio.

"THERE'S ALWAYS TOMORROW" by May Christie

SYNOPSIS

On her 25th birthday, Antoinette Goddard, a lovely San Francisco debutante, awakens with a feeling of great happiness. The cause of it was her fiancé, Brock Milbank, scion of the prominent west coast Milbanks. Toni felt flattered that the eligible Brock loved her when he could have had the pick of Soci-ety's debutantes. Jessica Payne, an unscrupulous blond, made no secret of his attraction for her. Even though Brock did not encourage Jessica, Toni was jealous of her. At the breakfast table, the news that her father had gone bank-rupt did not affect Toni deeply. "What was money compared with love?" she thought. "Besides, when she and Brock were married they could help mother and dad." Toni had a luncheon date with Brock. He had not telephoned so she won-dered if he knew of their changed financial status. Waiting for him in a hotel lobby, Toni is touched when one of her friends greets her with: "I'm frightfully sorry, Toni! You could have knocked me down with a feather! I just saw it in the papers. It's an awfully raw deal." The girl stared in amazement when Toni replied: "Every cloud has its silver lining and I've got mine 'head of me."

CHAPTER IV

One o'clock. Five after one. Ten after. One-fifteen.
Was it her imagination, or were acquaintances—girls and boys she knew casually—avoiding her as she sat in the lobby of the hotel where she had been wont to entertain so lavishly?

Avoiding her, and then looking over at her surreptitiously, whis-pering about her, some with pitying looks and some with thinly veiled sneers.

Did the loss of one's money mean, so quickly, the loss of prestige and of so-called friendship? Were they afraid she might try to borrow from them? That she was here without an invitation trying to horn in on a luncheon or something?

Toni's head went high, and two red spots burned in the clear pallor of her cheeks.
The lobby was emptying now. She felt conspicuous.

She'd walk over to the news-stand. Glance at the papers. If Brock didn't come in another five minutes, birthday or no birthday, she would leave.

On the front page of the Call-Bulletin were eye-compelling head-lines:

"YOUNG SAN FRANCISCO BLUE-BLOOD ELOPES WITH CHICAGO DIVORCEE."

Her gaze flew to the lower cap-tion, froze to the ghastly words that seemed to grow bigger and more ter-rible before her eyes. Her world crashed about her!

"Brock Milbank and Jessica Payne Married This Morning in Santa Barbara."

she read.
It wasn't true! There must be some horrible mistake!

It couldn't be true!
Brock had a cousin in Santa Bar-bara. His name was Jeffrey Mil-bank. Why there had been a mix-up! A silly misprint, of course!

Brock was engaged to her, An-toinette Goddard. He was so fine, so true, so devoted, it was utterly im-possible that he could do this thing to her!

But the headlines dancing before her eyes, a warning inner voice, a terrifying voice, reminded her that, the world over, it had happened thousands of times before.

Jilted! Without even notice! If only her leaden feet could impel her to the door of the fashionable hotel. Or to the ladies' lounge, where she could hide while reading what lay below the headlines.
But she was terrified to read it! She felt the compassionate eyes of the girl in charge of the news-stand on her, remembered that this very girl must have seen Brock and her-self meeting here, innumerable times. Her fingers fumbled in her pocketbook for the pennies to pay for the paper. Couldn't find them. Blindly she flung down a quarter, and without waiting for the change, hurried out of the lobby and into a taxicab.

She stammered to the driver: "Fisherman's Wharf, please."

Toni's world crashed about her!

As the taxi bounded forward, she drew a deep breath. Courage! Where was it now? Afraid to read a paper? Her heart thumping, she found the column.

"The surprise wedding in Santa Barbara this morning of the beautiful Jessica Payne of Chicago to Brock Milbank, only son of the John Pierce Milbanks of San Francisco. Will be of great interest to society not only on the Pacific coast, but throughout the Middle West."

"The bride, who resumed her maiden name after her recent Reno divorce and inheritance of one-fifth of the Payne estate from her late grandfather, met the groom during her three months' stay in San Francisco, during which time many parties were given in her honor."

"This reporter, on calling on the happy couple this morning, decided that Jessica undoubt-edly is the most beautiful bride of the season. As for the hand-some Brock, he wore a smile that looked as if it would never come off."

"After a wedding trip to the

the lobby of the hotel, came back to her. Explained now, in the light of this appalling cataclysm. How he had humiliated her.

But, the motive? Where was the motive?—she wondered. Why, over and over in her presence, he had laughed at Jessica Payne! Laughed at her background, her splash of money, her ostentation. Condemned her flashy clothes, her showiness.

Had it all been a blind, to hide his real attraction to her? Toni wondered. To pull the wool over her eyes?

But no, he had really loved his fiancée. Else why propose to her? Be so devoted? Perhaps his own family, as that morning dad had suggested, was hit too. That being so, they had brought pressure to bear on Brock, maybe, urging a wealthy marriage on him in preference to marrying a girl whose family had lost their money. The Milbanks, Sr., were worldly people, who had long since lost the idealism of youth.

But whatever the reason, nothing made it bearable. On this, her birth-day, her whole, safe happy world was in smithereens!

Trylon and Perisphere Dessert

By BETTY BARCLAY

As modern as "The World of Tomorrow" itself! And so up-to-the-minute that your guests shower you with exciting compliments on your cleverness!

Here is a novel cake-and-ice cream miniature of the giant Trylon and Perisphere which tower over the great New York World's Fair, and you can be first in your crowd to serve them. These amazing buildings leave an indelible impression on every visitor to this vast, colorful spectacle. And this easy, delicious, appealing treat is sure to make just such an impression on your party guests!

Here are the necessary directions:

Almond Ice Cream
2 packages vanilla powdered freezing mix
2 cups cold milk
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 cups whipping cream

Whip cold whipping cream in a bowl until it holds its shape — no more. Add powdered freezing mix to cold milk, beat with egg beater until smooth. Mix thoroughly with whipped cream without beating. Stir in almond extract. Pour into freezing tray. Place tray in freezing compartment and freeze until firm but mellow — about 3 hours. To serve, dip out with scoop or shape into balls with tablespoon. Serve with apricot sauce. Makes about 3 pints.

Apricot Sauce
1/4 lb. dried apricots (3/4 cup)
2 cups water
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 cup light corn syrup
Pinch salt

Wash apricots thoroughly, removing any dark spots. Put in saucepan with the water, cover, and slowly bring to boil; simmer until very tender, about 1 hour. Rub through sieve, with cooking water. There should be about 1 1/2 cups puree and juice; add enough water to make 2 cups. Add remaining ingredients, bring to boil, and boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Makes about 2 cups.

To Make Trylon
Choose close-textured butter cake such as pound cake. Cut into three-sided pyramids about 5 inches tall, having as bases equilateral triangles with 1 1/2 to 2 inch sides. Frost with 7-minute frosting to which a few drops of lemon juice have been added to make it spread easily. To frost easily, lay trylons on waxed paper and frost 2 sides in this position; when dry, turn and frost third side.

heading the brilliant cast which tells a sensational story of a mobster who could not be destroyed by bullets . . . and a fearless doctor who took the gunman's brain apart, piece by piece and before his very eyes, to blast his career of slaughter! RITZ THEATRE

"Only one army to catch the Cisco Kid? Amigos, it is to laugh!" So boasts Cisco, and it was to laugh indeed (unapologetically in fact) when "The Return of the Cisco Kid" opens at the Ritz Theatre. Warner Baxter, starred as the character that made him famous, has re-created for the screen O. Henry's immortal Robin Hood of the Rio Grande for this 29th Century-Fox picture, and it's one of the most entertaining, action-packed romances this reviewer has seen in a long time of reviewing.

RAIN POSTPONES BOTH TWILIGHT LEAGUE GAMES

Rain caused the postponement of both twilight league matches scheduled for last night. Both games were started but called before the first inning was completed. At Cornwells, the Rohm & Haas team was leading Diamond, 4-0, and on Landreth's field, Grundy's had the best of the Odd Fellows, 1-0.

Rohm and Haas is still leading the pack with nine wins and five losses. Diamond is close behind the chemical workers with seven and four. Grundy's jumped into third place this week with a five and five average and the Odd Fellows dropped into four by losing twice to have their standing read, six and eight. Hall Aluminum, although improving all the time, is resting in the cellar with three and nine.

Twilight League games will continue on next Wednesday night when two games are scheduled.

PHILA. POLICE NINE TO PLAY HERE TOMORROW

Tomorrow the Philadelphia Police baseball club will be the attraction at Landreth Ball Park.

When the Police beat here early in June the "farmers" beat them 7 to 6, but right after the game the Police said they felt they had an off day and believed that if Landreth was not afraid to play them again they would turn the tables. Many of the local fans in the last few weeks have asked Manager Landreth to bring this club back again, for it seems the fans enjoy razzing the Policemen, knowing they are perfectly safe in so doing while in the ball park, and the officers of the law do not seem to mind it a bit and come right back at the spectators.

Riley will be on the mound for the Police with Curry behind the bat. Manager Landreth is not just sure who will throw them up for the "farmers" for Jack Broderick to catch.

Sunday's game should really be a very fine contest and no doubt a large crowd will turn out to see this popular club.

Game called at 3.00 p. m.

NO VARIATIONS TO BE PERMITTED IN CARS

Not even slight variations from factory specifications will be permitted in the cars entered in the All-American 250 mile championship race on Tuesday, July Fourth. Herbert Lockhart, chairman of the technical committee for the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association has warned all entrants in the Langhorne Speedway Independence day classic.

While bumpers and other impediments may be removed from the cars, no changes in motors or chassis will be sanctioned and only regulation gasoline and lubricating oil, purchasable at public filling stations, will be acceptable.

Twenty cars qualified last Sunday were subjected to close examination by the technical committee and the twenty additional to be selected in the five ten-mile qualifying heat races next Sunday will be put through the test shops.

According to Lockhart, every car placing in a money position on July 4th will be immediately impounded by the AAA and experts will test every part to ascertain if the stock regulations have been observed. Another ruling handed down by the AAA eliminates all but pleasure cars that have been manufactured since 1937. The edict was aimed particularly at pick up trucks as it was reported that several planned on attempting to qualify that type of machine on Sunday.

Sunday marks the last opportunity for entries to qualify for the championship race July 4th as Monday has been reserved for track experts who will repair any damage which might be done to the course during the Sunday program. The track is now well saturated with heavy oil and all dust hazards have been eliminated. Officials predict that better time will be made in the Sunday qualifying heats than was recorded in the first elimination events.

Sunday's qualifying races will start at 2.30 o'clock. No time trials are scheduled as starting positions have been awarded in the order that entries were received.

REVISE SCHEDULE OF CHURCH LEAGUE HERE

At a meeting of the Church Softball League, last evening, it was decided to play two games each week, instead of one, hence a new schedule was adopted for the second half.

Team managers will receive a copy of the new schedule and same will be published.

Following is the schedule for week of July 3rd:

Monday: Bristol M. E. at Bristol Presbyterian; Calvary Baptist at Newportville Church; Cornwells Methodist at Croydon Methodist.

Thursday: Calvary Baptist at Bristol Methodist; Bristol Presbyterian at St. James' Episcopal; Newportville Church at Cornwells Methodist.

Tuesday, July 11: Cornwells at Bristol Methodist; Harriman Methodist at Croydon Methodist; St. James' Episcopal at Newportville.

Wednesday, July 12: Calvary Baptist at Bristol Methodist.

Regulations covering second half play were also adopted and these will also be given to the team managers.

Bracken Post and Three Others Reach Quota

At the last district meeting a motion was passed that each post commander send a list of Legionnaires whose blood has been typed, specifying on this list the method of typing employed, and this list to be for the district chairman of the Community Service Committee, to be used for Legionnaires and their families within the ninth district, for emergency use only.

District Commander Hemmerly also stated yesterday that post adjutants are urged to send a list of delegates and alternates to the district commander so that convention committee appointments can be announced at the caucus in August. The Pennsylvania Legion convention will be held in Williamsport, August 10, 11 and 12. An opportunity will be given to permit posts to nominate comrades for the office of district commander.

At the Norristown meeting on July 12, Edward H. Snow, principal of the Lower Merion Junior High School will be presented with a resolution for the very fine work and assistance he gave in connection with the recent visit to the national commander to this district in April.

State Senator Howard I. James, of Bucks County, and State Senator Edmunds, of Montgomery county, will be guests at the Norristown meeting, together with the winners of the essay contests conducted by the American Legion.

Thomas Williams, director of the Keystone State Boys Camp, yesterday informed District Commander Hemmerly that he is anxious to have the names of all public officials in the ninth district who are Legionnaires, such as judges, burgesses, county commissioners and others so they can be invited to speak at the State camp between July 16 and 26. The list should be mailed to District Commander Hemmerly, Melrose Park, Pa.

Discussing the matter of distinguished service certificates awarded to the outstanding citizens in the various communities by the American Legion, District Commander Hemmerly explained that applications for the certificate must be approved by a committee appointed by the district commander and that applications should be made at least two weeks in advance of the date the certificate is to be presented.

"Jap" Carpet-Baggers Swarm Into North China

In lesser numbers. Every train in North China carries scores of Japanese, men, women and children, to the remotest sections under occupation.

In Peking before the war there were less than 2,000 Japanese and Koreans. Today the figures are closer to 40,000 with a constant stream arriving. Tientsin, with its Japanese Concession, is not far behind Peking.

Aside from the more fortunate Japanese who have secured plums by way of jobs as advisors forced upon the Chinese government by their army and those employed by the large Japanese industrial interests, the majority of Japanese are those who brought small capital from home and started up in petty business. It is chiefly a matter of Japanese taking in each other's washing. The Chinese will have little to do with them commercially.

The immediate fate of these Japanese swarms is best described in the words of one of Japan's highest industrialists now commanding a large slice Here's Champion Joe Louis on the floor in the third round of his bout with slashing Tony Galento in New York, knocked down by terrific right from Galento's pudgy fists. Louis went on to win by technical knockout in the fourth round as Galento, battered and beaten, had to be held up by Referee Arthur Donovan.

"I'D LIKE AN ADVERTISEMENT, PLEASE!"

Suppose you had to buy each advertisement you see in the newspapers now! Suppose you had to pay to learn where and what and how about food, furniture, clothes!

You'd be mighty sure to read each advertisement thoroughly—digest every bit of important information it offered!

It's still a good plan to absorb all the facts from advertisements—even though they come to you free, along with your news! For here manufacturers tell you how to make a dollar do more work . . . how to spend wisely . . . how to go farther on less. Through the printed word, they proffer their finest wares. It's much to your advantage to listen as they speak.
